MEETING OF DELEGATES FROM ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

President McKinley and Other Distinguished Americans to Participate-Speakers From Asia and Africa.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, April 3.- The great ecumenical conference on foreign missions will meet in this city on April 21. Sessions will be held morning, afternoon and evening until May 1. The word ecumenical means worldwide. Missionaries will come from every land and nation and from many islands of the All matters pertaining to the movement will be discussed, and some of the most distinguished men and women in this country will address the gathering.

In previous years two similar conferences have been held in England, so that America is thus honored for the first time. Two thousand delegates will assemble, and several thousand spectators will daily listen to the talks. The amount of money required is $40,-

000, and this sum has been raised. Among the contributors are J. Pierpont Morgan and Morris K. Jesup. both of whom have given $1,000. John Crosby Brown is down for $250. Seth Low has also been liberal. Among the honorary members of the conference are Grover Cleveland, Admirat Philip. Captain Mahan, General O. O. Howard, Justice Brewer, John Wanamak er, President Schurman and Dr. R. S.

The first session will be addressed by Benjamin Harrison, ex-president of the United States. This will be in the afternoon, and in the evening a grand public reception will be given in Carnegie hall. President McKinley will speak, and representatives of the state and city of New York will also be

The conference will get down to business, however, without waste of time. Many meetings will be held in Carnegie hall, but churches and halls in the neighborhood will also be utilized. The subjects to be considered are innumerable, John Henry Barrows, president of Oberlin college, will speak. for instance, on the right attitude of Christianity toward non-Christian will talk on the outlook for missions in the coming century. Rev. Arthur T. Pierson and Bishop Thoburn of India will speak on evangelistic work. Dr. William T. Harris will read a paper on the "Place of Education In Christian Missions."

One of the most interesting speeches should be that of Hon. James B. Angell, former minister to Turkey. His subject will be "New Problems In Relation of Missions to Governments." David H. Greer, John R. Mott, C. Cuthan faiths. At another time Bishop Doane

In 1880 he was head of the sanitary staff of the Boer army in its fight against England. He is an author of some note. Another speaker will be Miss Lilavati Singh, the daughter of a native preacher of north India.

In this conference the women will not keep silent in the churches. Miss Jessie Duncan of India will tell how to present Christian truth to women and children. Emily Huntington Miller, dean of Northwestern university at Evanston, will read a paper. A very ing described land to-wit: noted woman, Mrs. Isabella Bird Bishop of Edinburgh, will not be present, but a paper prepared by her will be read by Mrs. Joseph Cook. Mrs. Bishop was born in 1822 and in 1844 began to travel, and this pursuit became the passion of her life.
